

Presents...

Women's Networks 3.0

Networks for a More Purposeful World

"Find a network of women at work who are your good friends. Do business with them as often as you can." - Jewelle W. Bickford, Senior Managing Director, Capital Markets Group

The Invitation

This work is dedicated to the belief that it is through women working together to bring forth Feminine Leadership principles that embody authentic connection, interaction and collaboration that we learn and grow together and we create and serve the greater good of our families, our communities, our companies and organizations, the marketplace we serve, and the world in which we live.

We invite you, along with other women visionaries and leaders of women's networks to join us in creating a container in which women's networks can come together to take action that positively contributes to large system transformation and evolution, while at the same time building their own capacity as leaders. We invite you, as women, to be a part of this unique development experience to co-create a life-affirming culture that contributes to a more balanced and purposeful world.

A First Step:

To create a Council of women's network leaders that stewards the work of Women's Networks 3.0, including the drafting of a declaration of who we are, our purpose and the principles we are committed to bring into the world, on-going development of our own capacities as women leaders, and begin to invite women leaders from a variety of industries and sectors to join together at periodic gatherings/events and through online infrastructures to:

- Continue to evolve our shared intention and increase our capacity to together create, exchange and evolve a new story that liberates networks of women from self-limiting paradigms to life-affirming ones.
- Exchange wisdom and resources and begin creating processes for launching successful projects using feminine leadership principles
- Develop our individual, our network's and a network of networks' leadership capacities that raise the level of consciousness and purpose, increase collaboration and co-creation and build purpose-driven communities

As we develop our own capacities as leaders and take effective action in the world, we will continue to invite and expand our circle of Women's Networks 3.0.

A Unique Opportunity for Developing Women's Leadership and Collective Action

"If you want to go fast, run alone. If you want to go far, walk together." - Proverb

The benefit of this developmental work reaches far beyond ourselves and our networks. As our societies have become industrialized, modernized and digitalized, we've adapted, and are continuously redefining our sense of home, community, work, gender roles, authority, power and success. Now more than ever, women are called to connect in larger and more meaningful ways. Through this work together we will develop the capacities to:

- Navigate with wholeness through complex issues and crisis to create and foster a human-friendly and planet-friendly work environment.
- Cultivate an authentic, balanced and a whole and complete way of thinking, speaking and acting that reflects a strong, respected and valued voice for women's networks in the corporations and organizations we are a part of.
- Achieve the good works of the companies we work in that builds and strengthens relationships with customers and creates trusting and mutually-beneficial relationships in the marketplace.
- Work with and be in co-creative relationships with all – men and women – in a way that embodies Feminine Leadership principles that create a world of peace, compassion, prosperity and creativity.
- Find our "right work" in the world that makes a difference

Offerings' Team of Resources

The women developing this emerging and critical body of work – Women's Networks 3.0 – are a group of highly intuitive, creative, collaborative, wise, experienced and passionate women – from various professions in the fields of leadership, organization and business development, women's development, community-building, social networking, systems sensing and thinking, social responsibility and transformation. They, and the networks they are a part of and bring forward, are each and together committed to life principles of authenticity, wholeness, compassion, collaboration, co-creativity, transparency, personal development in service to the greater good.

Through our work together, Offerings will bring a developmental approach to capacity-building for both individual and network leadership, exploring the power of integrating feminine leadership.

Come Join Us

If you and your network of women would like to become a part of something larger and more meaningful than you ever imagined and provide leadership to co-creating this body of work, contact Teresa Ruelas (teresa@offeringspublications.com) or Elizabeth Fadell (elizabeth@offeringspublications.com) for more information and details about a first gathering.

And if you know other women who would be interested in Women's Networks 3.0, please pass this on to them.